

HPC use cases for quantum computing

Michael Marthaler

HQS Quantum Simulations, Germany

michael.marthaler@quantumsimulations.de

Solving quantum mechanical problems is a major use case for high performance computing centers. This makes the integration of quantum computers a natural goal. In this presentation we will discuss the different quantum mechanical problems of interest and how HQS software makes NISQ computers useful in these areas.