Testing and verifying quantum computations and simulations

Barbara Kraus

Technical University of Munich, Germany

Barbara.Kraus@ph.tum.de

I will discuss here several protocols designed for the verification and the characterization of quantum devices. They range from protocols which were designed to verify the output of a quantum cloud computer using only classical means to practical testing and verification protocols of quantum devices utilized for quantum computation and simulation.